3D PRINTING

IMAGINE

This year Hanover received a grant to buy a 3D printer. The Cubex Duo, also known as "Dream Crusher", has the capability (kind-of) of printing out 3 dimensional objects designed on a computer by slowly building up layers of plastic. Mr. Spencer would allow students in his graphic design class to create just about anything they could imagine and print it out from the digital world to reality.

A TOUGH ACT TO FOLLOW

I was standing on stage with Sarah Van Der Weide preparing for the dance that was ahead. It started off well enough, until I butchered a ballroom move. Everyone laughed at my clumsiness. It's moments like this that will always remind me that this was the perfect way to go out. We were a special kind of people known as show people, and we carry that world full of dreams with us every day.

-Brandon Kratkoczki

I MISS THE MUSIC

My favorite part of the show is when I get to sing. I miss the music and the feeling of being on stage. It's a special feeling that I can't describe. I miss the music and the feeling of being on stage. It's a special feeling that I can't describe.
